

The American Institute of Architects

Invest in your future.

Our community of 94,000+ members is the largest, most influential network of architecture professionals. Join us.

Support for your career

Accelerate your career—whether you’re a new grad or an experienced architect—through industry-best continuing education and leadership training, available online, through your chapter, and at national events.

Support for your practice

Achieve better project outcomes with a suite of products designed to minimize your risk, avoid errors during specification, and get market insights you can apply to projects and business planning.

Support for the architecture profession

Champion the essential role of architects and architecture to the public; influence legislation through state, local, and federal advocacy; and add your voice to national conversations on key issues.

A'20

Free registration to A'20!

Join AIA and get free registration* to the AIA Conference on Architecture 2020 in Los Angeles—a value of up to $875!

*Visit aia.org/join for terms and conditions.

AIA MEMBERSHIP TYPES

Associate New Graduate

Designation: Assoc. AIA

For new grads starting their careers or working toward licensure. Free for up to 18 months.*

Associate

Designation: Assoc. AIA

For individuals who have a professional degree in architecture, work under the supervision of an architect, are enrolled in AXP, or are an architecture faculty member.

Architect

Designation: AIA

For licensed architects whether they’re newly licensed or in a leadership position.

International Associate

Designation: Int'l. Assoc. AIA

For architects licensed outside the US.

National Allied

For engineers, planners, landscape architects, or other fields allied to architecture.

National Allied Membership is at the national level only. For local or state allied membership, contact the nearest AIA chapter.

* Visit aia.org/join for eligibility requirements.

See a full list of benefits and learn how you can get involved.

aia.org/join